

more southern neighbors, and it is highly important that the ability of their delegation should keep pace with the requirements of their growing prosperity. The splendid Rail-Road from "Mississippi City" on the Gulf to Pontotoc, and thence to "Commerce," needs some attention, in order that the glorious work may go on immediately. This work is beyond all hope of doubt, the most stupendous road known to the world, and will, if successfully carried out, render the State competent within itself, to manage its own concerns—Let this road once go into successful operation, and the gallant State of Mississippi, will ask no odds of those who are now busily engaged in the effort to retard her greatness. No, she will be elevated above their state and indecent slanders, and placed upon an eminence, where the hissing of her enemies can never reach her magnanimity and liberality.

Col. Wm. H. Bayliss, of Hernando, is the right sort of spirit for this business. He is the very man to throw himself in the breach, and do battle for her honor and glory. He will never consent [for I know him well] to see her bow down in worship of any "foreign idols," and will sooner see the State of Mississippi "the cemetery of freemen, than the habitation of slaves." I regard his election as certain, and no less certain the able and satisfactory manner, in which he will discharge the important trust confided to his keeping.

A STATE RIGHTS MAN.

SPRING.

The following is from the pen of one of the accomplished editors of the Bowie Knife. What a pity that he is not a citizen of the Empire State. In this, the Paradise of Mississippi, where all the choice beauty of the commonwealth is clustered—surrounded by the fairest and most fascinating of creation's jewels—in this delicious climate, the genius which gave to the world the beautiful trill below, would find congenial region and send forth many a fairy flower of the hour, which we fear will never bloom on the margin of the dirty Yaloo. The fair ones of Grenada's pretty little village with one or two passing girls in may romper him with "strawberries and cream," and beg him to tell a belief that they are the most bewitching of charmers, but they can never make sense a poet of him as he would undoubtedly become in one brief hour in Holly Springs.

The beauties of spring dawn upon us refulgent grandeur. The landscape is putting forth the foliage of loveliness—and the gardens are bedecked with the rich and mellow tints of the flowers' odorous perfume. The plaintive songsters of the valley warble their rich notes of melodious music; and as fair Juliet goes "tripping o'er the flowery mead" she listens to the musical intonations which reverberate through the air. Sweet spring we chaunt thy inspiring lay that maketh the merry house-wife lackadaisical, and blue-eyed Susan smiles beautifully as the Goddess of morn shines on her rose lips!

[Bowie Knife.]

We may have to issue the Republican on a half-sheet for two or three weeks to come—as our paper is nearly out and we have not received GOOD MONEY enough since we took the establishment to buy a fresh supply.

TO THE VICTOR BELONGS THE SPOILS.

The conduct of Gov. Porter in removing from office those who were politically opposed to him, meets with general approbation by the democracy of the Union. It is an example set to the administration at Washington, which we trust will be speedily followed up by the President and the Heads of Departments, until there shall not a vestige of federalism remain. The President owes it to himself, to the character of his administration and to the unanimous wish of the democracy of the whole Union, to cleanse the Augean Stall of the fifth and stain of federalism which has been increasing among the subordinates in the different departments for the last quarter of a century. Two weeks ago we gave a taste by reference which it will be perceived that notwithstanding the democrats have controlled the General Administration for the last thirty-eight years, with not a single exception, they have had the smallest share of the powers that be.—Is this right? Is it proper? If it is necessary for the welfare of the country, (and we firmly believe it to be so) that the Chief Magistrate and Heads of Departments should be of the democratic faith—is it not equally necessary that the subordinates, who are to carry out the views and wishes of their superiors, should be of the same stamp? Most certainly it is. What would be thought of a mechanic who had a particular work to perform, if he would knowingly employ a set of hands who, instead of conducting it in the manner the instruction called for, would pursue an entirely different course and complete it contrary to his known and expressed will, and in such a way, too, as to injure him in his business, and lower him in the estimation of the public upon whom he depended for the support of himself and his family? Would he not be looked upon in the light of a maniac? And is not the General Government, by retaining the host of federal office holders in power, pursuing the same suicidal policy toward themselves and their friends that would characterize the humble mechanic in his daily avocation? Nay more—are the President and Heads of Departments not cherishing an adder in their bosoms which will sting them to death at the first opportunity? The fact is—the people demand a change in the policy of the administration in this respect. The democracy of the country have had too long to contend for the shadow, whilst their enemies have run away with the substance—and it behooves those who are more immediately interested in the matter, to retrace their steps in this particular and show their adherence to the popular will by removing every individual from office whose principles are contrary to the spirit of our republican institutions.—The people every where are beginning to move in this matter, and the administration cannot, and must not, turn a deaf ear to their remonstrances.

As we said in the outset, Gov. Porter has, by his policy in this particular, gained for himself, the applause and approbation of the whole country—and if the National Administration take the hint from so worthy an exemplar, the next election will show that they have more strongly than ever attached the people to their fortunes; but if they do not, they may find when it is too late, that the demands of the popular will are not to be treated with slight and disrespect.

LESSONS FOR LOVERS.

A late number of Fraser's Magazine contains a pleasant little poem, under the whimsical title of "Very," which contains some sage maxims for young gentlemen who go a courting. We extract three stanzas—

"If for instance, a woman you wish to woo,
Be her humor grave or merry,
The game is your own—you've nothing to do
But make her believe you—'Very'."

Very sad, very gay, very sharp, very flat
Very given to tea, or to sherry—
Very hot, very cold, very this, very that Very anything—so you're—very 'Very'.

Very tall, very short, very dark, very fair,
Very pale in the face, or florid;
Nay, I've known a man loved to the verge of despair,
For being surpassingly horrid."

FOR THE EDITOR of the Montreal Herald says, "Britannia rules the Maine." By the Great Jehovah, who led our sires through the dark days of the Revolution, that's a lie! We'll fight till we've got no shirt to our back, and no back to our shirt, before they shall have it! What! Britannia rule the main? Why, she couldn't do it sixty years ago, and she can't do it now. Let her come on, and be damned! Are we not armed? Twenty-six States and a whole raft of Territories, covered seventeen millions Yankee gentlemen and their wives and daughters; who are all the while increasing the stock! There they are! fat, rugged, and snuffy! Touch one of them, ye hirelings of monarchs, and by the kissing thunderbolts of Olympian Jove we'll make you smell the blue precipices were the fields deal in brimstone.

New Orleans Sun

JOURNAL of the American Silk Society and Rural Economist.

At a convention which met at Baltimore on the 11th of December last, composed of a number of gentlemen from various parts of the Union distinguished for their public services, patriotism and practical intelligence, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted after full discussion, in the course of which a great mass of facts and valuable information was elicited:

"Resolved, That it is the deliberate opinion of this Convention, that Silk may be grown in all the United States, not only for domestic purposes, but as a valuable article of Commercial export—thereby giving an active employment to American labor, and retaining millions of dollars in our country, that are annually sent out of it for the purchase of alien goods."

"Resolved, That a National Silk Journal ought to be established under the auspices of the Executive Committee; and all the funds over and above the support of said paper, ought to be devoted to the advancement of the silk cause in the U. States."

"Under the latter resolution, the Subscribers have been solicited to assume the Editorial superintendence of the Journal to be published by the Society; and now, with not the least abatement of that fondness, (not to say passion for rural life, and all its pursuits, which prompted him, eighteen years since, to issue the first number of the "American Farmer," he is too happy to salute once more his old friends and correspondents, promising to deserve new ones, by the most assiduous endeavors, (not incompatible with strict attention to his official duties) to accelerate the growth and progress of what he is convinced is destined to become a great branch of national industry—bringing into active exercise much of the new unproductive laboring power of the country—giving comfort to the widow and the orphan, by offering them suitable and remunerating employment—and making, in the aggregate, a large addition to the wealth and prosperity of our beloved Union."

Though Silk, and every thing connected with its production, and all its improvements in machinery for its preparation and manufacture, will constitute the chief design and aim of the Journal—for the sake of agreeable variety a considerable portion of its pages will be dedicated to the justly popular and kindred subjects of Agriculture, Horticulture, and Russia and Domestic Economy. Hence the adjective title of "Rural Economist." J. S. KENNEDY.

Baltimore, Jan. 1, 1836.

The "Journal of the American Silk Society" will be published monthly in pamphlet form. Each number will contain 32 pages, printed on new type and handsome paper, with printed colored cover.

All persons friendly to the objects of the Journal, will please collect at once, the names and subscription money of those who may feel disposed to patronize it.

Terms.—Two dollars a year, or six copies for ten dollars—always to be paid before the work is sent. All subscriptions to begin with the 1st No. of the year, and in no case will the work be sent to any subscriber longer than it shall be paid for.

All communications to be addressed (post paid) to Gideon B. Smith, corresponding secretary of the society, Baltimore.

All Editors of papers, who may desire to see Silk added to the list of American Staples, and who will have the kindness to give this Prospectus a few insertions, will be entitled to a copy of the Journal.

TENNESSEE PATRIOT

J. LEIGH, EDITOR.

TO BE PUBLISHED AT DROGUE, TENNESSEE.

THE custom of the times has rendered it necessary that those who would assume the responsible station of Editors, should first lay before the public an exposure of the principles which the proposed publication will be governed by, together with the course which it is designed to pursue amid the vexed political questions of the day. To do this, is the object of the following remarks.

The more candid of all political parties do not attempt to disguise the fact, that a large majority of the people of Tennessee are from principle Democrats. Republicans of the old Jeffersonian school—attached to doctrines advanced and the course pursued by the late Administration. It is true that an attempt has been recently made by some of our recreant sons, to persuade their allies abroad that Tennessee has forsaken the ground she has long and so proudly occupied, and that she is now ready to be transferred, as a willing bride to the arms of whosoever she chooses. The Whig party may select as her future spouse; but the more intelligent part of the community know that the warriors of New Orleans and their sons are made of sterner stuff—that their flag has never flung before a foreign foe—and that it never can be lowered in the presence of a domestic enemy of their country and its institutions.

Meanwhile it is notoriously true, that every press in this district, (with one honorable exception) has gone over to the ranks of our enemy, so that in many instances the people are deprived of the means of forming a correct judgment with reference to important political measures. Frequently do we find, that for the purpose of obtaining local news, members of the Democratic party are compelled to patronize a press, devoted soul and spirit, to the propagation and diffusion of sentiments which we hold to be alike unconstitutional and impolitic; and as in many cases they are either unable or unwilling to subscribe to more than one newspaper, they are far from being as fully acquainted with the views and intentions of their own party, as they should be, whilst we have no doubt that many honest men are Federalists, simply because they do not know how selfish are the views and how ignoble the aims of the so-called leaders of their party.

That these difficulties may be obviated in this portion of the State the PATRIOT will be forthwith established. It will not be a violent party print, nor will it abuse those who may chance to differ with us in sentiment. On the contrary, its columns shall always be open to the temperate discussion of any political question. Nevertheless its own course will be uniform. Believing that long and confidential relations with the country are most indebted to ANDREW JACKSON, for the preservation of those liberties which were purchased with the blood and treasure of the glorious heroes of '76—warmly attached to the principles which marked his administration, and convinced that MARTIN VAN BUREN, the rejected of the Senate, is from the long and confidential relation which he sustained towards "the sage of the Hermitage," better qualified than any other candidate likely to be before the people at the next election, to carry out those principles, we shall accord to him our humble support, and shall advocate the measures which have marked his Administration.

We will support a system of internal improvements to be carried on under the patronage of the States; and will oppose any system of the kind intended to be supported by appropriations from the Treasury of the General Government. We will advocate a prudent and judicious system of Banking Institutions under the authority of the States, and will oppose a National Bank whatever form it may assume; the abolition of Slavery in the District of Columbia and any tariff not rendered necessary by the wants of the Government.

A portion of the paper will be devoted to light reading—considerable attention will be paid to agriculture, and the usual space occupied with an account of the foreign and domestic intelligence, &c. &c. In a word, we intend to make it a newspaper, designed to assist as well as to instruct, for old and the young, the Farmer the Mechanic and the Merchant, the grave and the gay, the studious and the severe.
